

434

Attila and his brother BLEPA negotiated a treaty with the Eastern Roman (Byzantine) Emperor
THEODOSIOS II and obtained an immense annual tribute of about 300kg (700 lb)
of gold

434AD

d. 453AD

ATTILA took control of the horde called HUNS (A mongol people) in 434AD

He obtained vast monetary tributes from the Romans and devastated large parts of the empire for almost 2 decades. Shortly after his death (453) the horde disintegrated and those of HUN origin disappeared rapidly, probably as a result of cultural assimilation.

434

Rugila King of the Huns dies.
Attila succeeds.

5TH CENTURY AD 400 → 500 AD

Tribes from northwestern Continental fringe, speaking a form of West Germanic, invaded and conquered Romano-Celtic England.